Literacy matters at ICCD, because it changes life for the GOOD! So we believe in the importance of education and the power of all individuals, families, groups, agencies, and institutions to act collectively to meet the needs of their communities.

Who are we? - Center for Community Development (ICCD) formally known as the Hispanic Learning Center of Cabarrus (HLCCC) founded February 2001; the center targets individuals and families within Cabarrus and surrounding community that are primarily low income The International, underserved, at-risk and the disadvantaged. We at ICCD believe in the importance of education, enrichment, and the power of all individuals, families, groups, agencies and institutions to act collectively to meet the needs of their communities. Our policy is to serve all individuals regardless of race, religion, ethnic group, or economic or social status.

Mission statement: ICCD in Concord, NC is dedicated to promoting community and economic development. The Center sets the pace for public services and community education through a unique combination of after school and adult learning, youth development, and improving human condition for low income, under served, at-risk and the disadvantaged in collaboration with communities.

Brief operating history: Founded in 2001, ICCD offer many opportunities for students to improve their academic skills while participating in fun, positive, enriching after school and summer activities. We provide tutorial services to help students, particularly students who attend low performing schools in our community, English as a Second Language students, and those referred from local schools. Our students come from Cabarrus County Schools, Kannapolis City Schools, Cabarrus & Concord Charter schools, Charlotte Mecklenburg schools, and Homeschools less than 3% from nearby counties such as Rowan County. ICCD mentors provides invaluable opportunity and share their knowledge and expertise with the students who need it most. Our Programs included but not limited to:

ICCD current impact Cabarrus community & Beyond

ICCD programs bring a wide range of benefits to youth, families, and communities. According to Irina Bokova, "Literacy is the door to knowledge, essential to individual self-esteem and empowerment." Between September 2011- Dec.2021, there were about 3700 documented children that received some sort of academic help, of the 3700, 78% were Hispanics, 81% attends Cabarrus County school. Our afterschool literacy programs help boost academic performance for our county schools, reduce rate risky behaviors, crime/juvenile delinquency, promote physical health and wellbeing, and provide a safe, structured learning/playing environment for the children of working parents. We work collaboratively with the public Library, local colleges and universities, relevant businesses, and organizations to help meet our goals and objectives to -

- increase Reading and writing skills
- encouraging family activity times
- improving oral communication, thinking skills, problem solving and decision making.
- improving and providing access to technology

Research has shown that a student's economic background is a strong predictor of his or her academic performance. 92% of ICCD students come from economically disadvantaged homes.

To help meet their needs, ICCD will work to maximizing student learning time at the center, take field tips and in-home support/resources.

- focusing and implementing on early learning education.
- attracting, developing, and retaining high-quality teachers, tutors, volunteers, and
- utilizing the center graduates and college students who were ICCD students to mentor current students
